Kendra, age 20, has a rich, warm voice influenced by jazz and blues. Her unique sound breathes new life into old songs. Kendra has been compared to the likes of Alison Krauss and Eva Cassidy — sweet but sassy! She plays lead guitar and writes the band's original music.

LaRae, age 19, is accomplished at the banjo, playing both the old claw-hammer and the Scruggs' three-finger style. LaRae can make a banjo sound lyrical or brassy! While she adds her lovely high-tenor voice to the band, LaRae may be best known for her beautiful smile. How many people can pick a banjo and smile at the same time?

Alisa, age 17, is bursting with talent and energy and lights the stage on fire with her presence! Alisa is a smokin' hot fiddle and Moonbeam Mandolin® player who loves music and loves to share it. Her voice has been compared to Loretta Lynn, singing low baritone with maturity beyond her years. She also taught herself to yodel by listening to old country songs.

Meghan, age 14, is an incredible young bass player and the solid, steady heartbeat of the band. Meghan sings with a sweet, high-tenor voice and while quiet off-stage, she isn't shy about sharing her music!

Apryll married Brett after he serenaded her on their first date! Well, who can say no to a great Elvis love song like Can't Help Falling In Love? His soulful baritone voice has had her hooked for over 20 years now! Brett sings lead, bass and low-tenor harmony while driving bus for the band.

Apryll gained her love of music from her parents, growing up playing classical piano and violin. Her mother always dreamed of having a family band and now Apryll has made that dream a reality. She plays rhythm guitar and adds depth to the vocals with her broad range from low baritone to high tenor.

Sean, Joseph, and Ammon, "The Walker Boys" age 11, 9, and 7, respectively, are quickly catching up with their older sisters! They have started their own group playing fiddle, Moonbeam Mandolin®, banjo and bass while singing solid three part harmonies that only young boys' voices can create!
